(Introduction to the Catholic Faith)

The Story of Saint Joseph the Worker

Pope Pius XII instituted the feast of Saint Joseph the Worker in 1955. This feast extends the long relationship between Joseph and the cause of workers in both Catholic faith and devotion. Beginning in the Book of Genesis, the dignity of human work has long been celebrated as a participation in the creative work of God. By work, humankind both fulfills the command found in Genesis to care for the earth (Gn 2:15) and to be productive in their labors. Saint Joseph, the carpenter and foster father of Jesus, is but one example of the holiness of human labor.

Jesus, too, was a carpenter. He learned the trade from Saint Joseph and spent his early adult years working side-by-side in Joseph's carpentry shop before leaving to pursue his ministry as preacher and healer. In his encyclical Laborem Exercens, Pope John Paul II stated: "the Church considers it her task always to call attention to the dignity and rights of those who work, to condemn situations in which that dignity and those rights are violated, and to help to guide [social] changes so as to ensure authentic progress by man and society."

Saint Joseph is held up as a model of such work. Pius XII emphasized this when he said, "The spirit flows to you and to all men from the heart of the God-man, Savior of the world, but certainly, no worker was ever more completely and profoundly penetrated by it than the foster father of Jesus, who lived with Him in closest intimacy and community of family life and work."

Jesus the True Vine

"I am the true vine and my Father is the vinegrower." (Jn15. 1-2)

The world's greatest leaders influence people from the outside in their speeches, ideas, examples and their presence—they move and motivate us. Christ, however, goes much deeper.

He not only calls us from the outside but he unites himself to us so intimately that his very life flows through our veins. Where does the vine stop and its branches begin? The same sap gives life to the vine and to its branches, renewing hearts from the inside, as only God can do.

God wants us to "bear much fruit" and to be (his) disciples. God wants our lives to show his goodness and to bring lost souls back into the fold and to fill all his children with the justice and beauty they need to flourish. Our desire to do something with our lives is a gift from God. Bearing this fruit requires our own efforts to stay united to the vine, through prayer, the sacraments and loving obedience to God's will. It also requires our being pruned—the purification of our selfishness that comes through suffering and sacrifice. Love and sacrifice, as all the lives of the saints attest to, and as Christ himself exemplifies, keep the sap flowing.

Christ tells us how to achieve fruitfulness: "Remain in me...cut off from me you can do nothing." (Jn15.5) As long as we stay united to the vine, whatever apostolic activities we engage in will yield a harvest—even a small branch dangling near the ground will produce its fruits as long as it's united to the vine.
